You are invited to participate in the

2010 Home Show and Energy Innovation Fair

The 2010 Home Show and Energy Innovation Fair is right around the corner! We want to invite you to participate at this traditional Home Show event with a new twist. This year's show is meant to showcase our local businesses as well as provide our community with a new understanding of "energy innovations."

On Saturday, April 17th from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. we'll present the Home Show and Energy Innovation Fair at the Richland Center Middle School. The event is sponsored by the Richland Center Electric Utility, Alliant Energy, Richland Electric Cooperative, Miller Electric, B&C Services Unlimited LLC, Neighborhood Housing Services, Richland Chamber and Development Alliance and the Richland County UWEX Office. We expect this to be much more than just a show, we will have speakers throughout the day discussing topics such as: Focus on Energy incentive programs, energy conservation, solar energy, agricultural energy sources, and transportation power options.

We would encourage you to take part in this very special event and be willing to share your product lines, your information, or your services with consumers in our area. It will be a great opportunity to interact and learn.

All the information you need is found on the enclosed registration form. Please fill out the form and return it as soon as possible!

For more information contact the Richland Chamber and Development Alliance at 608-647-6205.

Sincerely,

The 2010 Home Show & Energy Innovation Fair Planning Committee and participating Sponsors:
